

Biography – Charlotte Moser

Charlotte Moser is Senior Content Manager for the Development Gateway Foundation, an Internet portal based in Washington, D.C., that enables development in poor countries through knowledge-sharing. She is managing editor for e-communities on Culture, Indigenous Issues, Urban Development, and MDG Capacity-Building, as well as Coordinating Editor for the Development Gateway Special Reports. Her article “Partnerships with Indigenous Peoples on the Development Gateway” appeared in December 2005 in UNESCO’s journal “MUSEUM International” devoted to “Partnerships—A Successful Paradigm?” Prior to joining the Content Team in 2002, Charlotte worked for 20 years as editor-in-chief, staff and freelance writer, specializing in world cultures, for newspapers and magazines in the U.S and as a college professor.