

Craig Clark

currently works for the Inuit Tapiriit Kanatami, Canada's National Inuit Organization. He spent ten years in Iqaluit Nunavut where he became involved in several projects with the Canadian Arctic's first private ISP, Nunanet Worldwide Communications. Since 2001 Craig has worked for ITK dealing with information and communication technologies as they relate to Inuit.